Oh My Stars!

by Georgia G. Otten

If you think about it, you probably know more about stars than you realize. For example, there are Brenda, Bart, and Ringo. There are rising stars, falling stars, and shooting stars. Not to mention the witnesses, the gazers, and the trekkers! There are people with stars in their eyes. There are those who want to hitch their wagon to a star or simply want to swing on a star! There are movie stars, star-studded evenings, and even a starfish. And of course, there are Cambridge stars. At this time I will only consider the glass, not the people!

A Cambridge Star is Born

It was not long into the life of the Cambridge Glass Company until there was a star. The January 1908 issue of Glass and Pottery World included a Cambridge advertisement which introduced two new Near Cut patterns. As illustrated in that ad, they were "Ribbon" and "Star." See the March 1975 Crystal Ball for a copy of this advertisement.

The Shape of Stars to Come

Presented in the January 1940 catalog were items made in the shape of a star. First, the candleholders: 2 1/2"; 4"; 5"; 11" sizes. The candleholders, other than the 11", were advertised as being made in Crystal and Moonlight; however, the 4" and 5" star are known in Forest Green and the 2 1/2" star is known in Amethyst and Amber.

Sometime before August 1, 1940, additional pages were added to the catalog. Making an appearance as part of the Pristine Line was the No. 440 10" Star bowl. The number of star items in the Pristine Line was

President's Message

Next Time

This is probably the most difficult message to write. It's not even June and I have to get the July message done so we can get the Crystal Ball to the printer. Please forgive me if this is not an informative article.

While Convention will be over at the time you receive this issue, we will not report on the convention until the August Crystal Ball. Consequently, I must encourage you to attend the August quarterly meeting at this time, since this is the only opportunity I will have to do so prior to the quarterly meeting itself. The meeting will probably be at Theo's in Cambridge. If there are any changes to this, they will be advertised in the August Crystal Ball. We have held our August meeting at Theo's for the last couple of years and it seems to work for the crowd that normally shows up. This will be the first meeting after the convention and may be an interesting one since it will be after a normally busy board meeting the previous day.

The August board meeting is where we make decisions when events will occur within the year. It is also when committee assignments are made and overall business decisions of NCC are voted on. For a board member, it is usually our longest meeting of the year.

As usual, I ask, have you signed up a new member?

The Scotty Dogs are selling. Did you pick up yours at this year's convention. If not, it's not too late to order yours.

I hope everyone enjoyed the convention, show, and Phyllis' auction. I am sure that I will spend or have spent too much, but I am sure to have enjoyed myself this year. I hope the next article will have more meat to it.

March 3, 2000

The quarterly meeting of National Cambridge Collectors, Inc. was called to order at 7:00 p.m. by president Tarzan Deel. The reading of the minutes of the November 1999 quarterly meeting was dispensed with as they will be published in the Crystal Ball. The highlights of the survey will follow the minutes as published in the Crystal Ball. Rick reported that Dennis Snyder had completed a feasibility/affordability study using current and past financial figures. Extensive dialog has taken place by the NCC Board concerning the Ohio Power building, Northeastern University, located in the Boston, MA, area actually owns the building and currently dialog is ongoing concerning the property. The University may be willing to lease or sell the property. There will be a do-ability study conducted using Dennis' figures and an evaluation of the site. After this evaluation study is completed, a comparison will be made. Rick also reported that Lana Watkins from OMEGA had met with the Board and related some ways that OMEGA could be of help in acquiring grant funds for the museum.

to maintain and fund the operation; build what we can afford now and allow for expansion; suggestions for the inside display area that the glass is the most important item and should be well lighted and spacious; skylights.

There were remarks to the effect that we should sell the "new" location. We should consider using the "old" location and redo the storage building into a museum. Use the current storage building for molds and tools as long as we still own it.

Surprise

by Bud Walker

This past winter we received a letter from the curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. In her letter she asked if we could provide any information and pictures of Mr. W.L. Orme that could be used in a display that was being planned for the spring of 2000. We sent what information we had including copies of several patents that were in Mr. Orme's name. In addition, we sent several pictures and news articles about the Cambridge Glass Company and Mr. Orme.

You can imagine the shock and surprise when we received an R.S.V.P. invitation to attend a preview and reception to celebrate the opening of the exhibition, which was titled "American Modern 1925-1940 Design for a New Age." The preview was Monday, May 15, 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. We had hoped to spend the day visiting the museum only to find it was closed on Mondays and would only be open to invited guests for the preview and reception to celebrate the opening of the exhibition.

In viewing the beautiful exhibit we were again surprised to see Cambridge's Pristine candleholders featured in a separate case. As we were admiring them, a gentleman came over and told us he was the owner of the beautiful set. We talked about Cambridge glass and some of the pieces they made. I remarked that I had been collecting for about 20 years and had never found a complete set of Architecture Series candleholders. He then took us over to meet the man in charge of fundraising for the museum. They informed us that they had had a mold made and plan on issuing a clearly marked reproduction of these lovely candleholder and we would be able to get them through their gift shop in a few months.

At first I was shocked and a little disturbed that someone was copying the Pristine candleholders. But, after thinking it over for a while, I realized what an honor it was to have one of the most prestigious museums in the country deem the Cambridge candleholders worthy of reproducing as a fundraiser for their museum. The workers of the Cambridge Glass Company should be proud that much of what they produced has become highly desirable to the extent that a premier museum would be interested in reproducing a piece that Cambridge produced.

increased in June 1941. Offered was the star ashtray in sizes 4", 5", 6 1/2", and 7". Also available was No. 308 7" Star bowl. With a ladle that bowl becomes the 7" mayo, and with a lid, it becomes the 7" Star candy box.

Twinkle, Twinkle, R.C. Star

If you want to see stars shining brightly, you need only to look at the Rock Crystal engravings by Cambridge that feature a star: Star (4), #953 American Star, Star 1016, Star 1060, Starburst 4P, and Starlite 10P.

Give That Man a Gold Star!

This was accomplished with the introduction of the Ebon line in early 1954. Ebon will be found plain or with one of two decorates. One of the decorates is small gold stars, D/Stars. Cambridge also had an etching named Stars, and by means of an application of gold, a different decorate "Stars" was created. Both the etching and its decorate Stars can be found on No. 1528 10" vase.

Hopefully you are now "star-struck" and want to go out looking for these items to add to your collection. If you do, and if you encounter a little trouble finding them all and you say "rats," just look at it this way: "rats" spelled backwards is STAR! And when you do find them all, just thank your lucky stars ... Cambridge stars that is!

“All Wine Should Be Served In Stemmed Glasses”

by Georgia G. Otten

My title is in quotation marks because I copied the line directly from page 30 of a Cambridge Glass Company pamphlet, "The Art of Making Fine Glassware," third printing, 1941. This publication is a mini-history of glassmaking in general and an introduction to Cambridge glass specifically. Although I have read it many times (topics discussed: annealing, pressing and etching glass, among others) what caught my eye this time was the helpful hints for the "proper" table settings. I thought about some other brochures I had which include various helpful hints; Reed and Barton Sterling, "how to become a successful hostess" written sometime in the '40s; one from the West Virginia Glass Company (Dec. '71), on "how to pronounce those hard-to-pronounce wines." I even looked at a book found in most homes, "The Joy of Cooking." My primary interest became the use and placement of various stems. The Cambridge pamphlet, again on page 30, gives a list of various wine types and the "acceptable stem" for its service. It states: The only glass served on the table at a formal dinner, which may not match the water goblet is the hock or roemer. All other glasses must be of the same pattern as the water goblet.

With all the listings of wines and specific glasses, I began to wonder which of the Cambridge stem lines could accommodate this "matching" obligation. By using the 30-34 Catalog, Mark Nye's stemware book, and the '40s catalog, it did not take very long to find Cambridge stem line No. 7801. Take a look, it is a HUGE line! It appears to be the one line best able to handle the "match the water goblet" criteria.

Besides No. 7801, I used four other large lines: Nos. 3129, 3109, 3104, and 3011. Then I constructed a chart which names the wines and stems as listed in the Cambridge pamphlet. Next step was to mark the glasses which could be found in each of the five Cambridge stem lines. While I consider it improbable to have a formal dinner menu which would include all these wines at one meal, it is commendable that the Cambridge Glass Company made the stems available if the menu did indeed provide the courses!

Every time I look in a Cambridge book I believe I see something I have never seen before. There is always more to see and more to learn. I had not given much thought, or any thought, to the size of a stem line before. One just never knows what will trigger the "look it up and find out" mode. One discovery leads to another. Imagine finding the 7801 line has a listing for a "192 ounce brandy inhaler"! That's what the catalog showed ... Okay ... party, party, party!
